

Dropping a Course

You may drop a course only according the dates listed on the Academic Calendar. You must comply, however, with the Minimum Course Load requirements.

In general, during the first week of the semester, you may drop a course at your own discretion. During the second week, you may drop a course with instructor approval. Under either of these procedures, the course will not appear on your transcript.

In general, after the first two weeks of the semester and up until the beginning of exams, you may drop a course with permission from the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Normally, a W will appear on your transcript.
